

Introduction

Fenix Securities, LLC (“Fenix”, “we”, “us”) is a registered broker-dealer with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). Our Firm offers broker-dealer services to retail investors, providing them with a range of investment options. We believe it is crucial for you to understand the differences between the services and fees offered by investment advisers and broker-dealers. Free and simple tools are available for research firms and financial professionals at brokercheck.finra.org and investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials on investing, broker-dealers, and investment advisers.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

At Fenix Securities, LLC, we offer a diverse set of investment options for retail investors, including Corporate Equity and Debt Securities, Domestic and Offshore Mutual Funds, Traditional and Non-Traditional ETFs, U.S. Government Securities, Foreign Debt Securities, Structured Products and Option Securities. Our knowledgeable staff is available to assist retail investors in making informed decisions.

Account Features:

- Monitoring: Fenix Securities voluntarily reviews trading activity and account holdings to identify and address any issues or concerns that may affect retail investors.
- Investment Authority: Retail investors have the option to choose either Discretionary or Non-Discretionary trading within a Fenix Securities brokerage account. In a Discretionary account, authorized persons can make trades without investor approval, while in a non-Discretionary account, investors decide on the trades.
- Limited Investment Offerings: Fenix Securities does not offer proprietary products, private placements, FINRA Rule 144 exempt securities, futures contracts, options on futures, retail off-exchange forex contracts, or swaps.
- Account Minimums and Requirements: Fenix Securities does not impose any requirements for account opening or maintenance, such as minimum account sizes or investment amounts.

What fees will I pay?

When investing through Fenix Securities, you may incur various fees and costs associated with your brokerage account. These fees include commissions, markups and markdowns, upfront or ongoing fees related to mutual funds or other products, handling and processing fees on each securities transaction, periodic account maintenance or custodial fees, and processing, services, and account fees on certain events or occurrences.

Additionally, interest charges may apply if you borrow on margin or draw down on a securities-based loan. Certain investments, such as mutual funds, may have embedded fees paid to the sponsoring, managing, and/or promoting companies. Some investments, like mutual funds, index funds, exchange-traded funds, and variable annuities, may also incur additional fees that could affect your investment’s value over time. Be aware that “surrender charges” might apply if you sell variable annuities.

You may also be charged for investments allocated to Independent Money Managers. Regardless of whether you make or lose money on your investments, fees, and costs will reduce your investment returns over time. Therefore, it’s essential to understand the fees and costs associated with your investments. More information about our fees and charges can be found at <http://fenixsecurities.com/disclosure.html>.

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser?
How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

At Fenix Securities, we are committed to acting in your best interest. However, our compensation structure may create conflicts with your interests. We want you to be fully informed about these potential conflicts, and we encourage you to ask us any questions regarding how they might impact the recommendations we provide.

Examples of potential conflicts of interest include:

- Ensuring Best Interest: We require all our representatives, whether Foreign Associates, Registered Representatives, or Principals, to prioritize your best interests and not place their interests ahead of yours.
- Foreign Finder Introductions: If your account is introduced by a Foreign Finder with Limited Trading Authorization, a conflict may arise due to the compensation they receive based on trading activity.
- Employee Business Activities: We monitor employees' outside business activities to prevent potential conflicts of interest.
- Proprietary Trading and Product Sales: We do not engage in proprietary trading or sell proprietary products.
- Third-Party Payments and Revenue-Sharing: If your account is held at StoneX Group In., we do not receive Third-Party Payments or have Revenue-Sharing agreements for execution services. However, if your account is held at Vision Financial Markets or Apex Clearing, Fenix Securities does receive payment for order flow. Detailed information is available on our website pursuant to SEC Rule 606.

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals are compensated based on our firm's revenue from their brokerage services or recommendations and the amount of client assets they service. Also, some financial professionals receive Transaction-based compensation in return for clients' referrals.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?

Yes. Visit brokercheck.finra.org for a free and simple search tool to research our firm and our financial professionals.
